

The CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

- WORLD
- USA
- COMMENTARY
- MONEY
- ENVIRONMENT
- INNOVATION
- SCIENCE
- THE CULTURE
- BOOKS

USA All USA Topics

Subscribe | E-mail newsletters | RSS

BP takes Gulf oil spill heat, but what about other companies?

BP accepts responsibility for the massive Gulf oil spill, making it a lightning rod for public rebuke. But other companies, including Transocean and Halliburton, may be legally liable, too.

(Page 2 of 2)

Like You like this Be the first of your friends to like this. · Admin
Page · Error Unlike

"It will be the contract law fight of all contract law fights," Henning said.

Photo Gallery
Sticky mess: The Gulf oil spill's impact on nature

While legal judgments are yet to be determined, says Plater, "My guess is there will be a lot of pointing of fingers."

The blame game has already begun.

Officials from BP, Transocean, and Halliburton testified before Congress on May 11. Three days later, President Obama called those hearings a "ridiculous spectacle."

Related Stories

- What BP needs to do to salvage its oil-drenched image
- Gulf oil spill: Why is it so hard to stop?

"You had executives of BP and Transocean and Halliburton falling over each other to point the finger of blame at somebody else," said Mr. Obama in a May 14 speech.

Henning and Plater each say they're not surprised that the other companies are keeping a low profile for the time being, letting BP become the face of the Gulf spill.

'A gathering storm of litigation'

"Their first reaction, of course, is self defense," Plater said. "I'm sure they're delighted BP is in the crosshairs, but they also know there is a gathering storm of litigation on the way."

Additionally, "they're not going to be able to duck [public scrutiny]," he said. "It's just postponed.... It will be a top story for months, if not longer."

According to BP spokeswoman Heidi Feick, the question of other companies stepping forward has not been discussed at BP. Their focus is on ending the spill and cleaning it up, she said.

More USA

BP takes Gulf oil spill heat, but what about other companies?

About these ads

Subscribe to the weekly Monitor and save 71%!

Most viewed

- Gulf oil spill: Why BP's cap success is turning sour
- Why Israel ignores global criticism of Gaza flotilla raid
- Why Peru's police need Joran van der Sloot to reenact killing
- Blog: You can rent President Obama's New York apartment for only \$1,900 a month
- Blog: Bonus in Shrek glasses recall: \$3 refund for \$2 glass
- 'Back to Future,' 'Jurassic Park' to become video games
- Why Iran's Revolutionary Guard wants to escort new Gaza flotilla
- BP live feed doesn't lie: Is BP oil spill plume worse than before?
- Nikki Haley in South Carolina runoff
- Blanche Lincoln in surprise win in Arkansas; GOP women triumph, too

During its congressional testimony last month, Halliburton said it accepts no blame for the spill. That's Transocean's position as well, according to a spokesman.

Inevitably, Henning said "BP will happily name everyone who was involved," but in the meantime, BP will likely continue to act as a magnet for the blame, because continuing to point fingers before the oil stops flowing and cleanup is further along would damage BP's already-sullied image.

"The court of public opinion isn't fair; the media is not fair," he said, adding that BP was the most recognizable name and easiest to blame immediately after the disaster began. "But whether it's fair or not, [BP] will have to live with it."

The blame will be sorted out through litigation, Henning said, but it will be a drawn out process likely lasting a decade or more.

Related:

What BP needs to do to salvage its oil-drenched image

Gulf oil spill: Why is it so hard to stop?

Follow the Monitor on Twitter and Facebook.

Like You like this Be the first of your friends to like this. · Admin
Page · Error Unlike

Click here to receive the next full month of the Daily News Briefing – a new news service from The Christian Science Monitor – ABSOLUTELY FREE!

In Pictures

Space Photos of the Day 06/09

Photos of the day

06.09.10 >

More workers quit their jobs, and that's good news for the economy

The economy responds to consumer fear and confidence, and confident workers quitting their jobs in search of something better signal to economists that things are looking up.

Global News Blog

Global mystery: Why are snakes dying off?

Interview with Afghan warlord Hekmatyar: Can peace talks succeed?

Thatcher II? Britain poised to slash budgets, government's role.

TBS touts Conan O'Brien for an Emmy -- for his work on NBC

About these ads

FREE Daily Digest E-mail

CSMonitor.com top stories, cartoons and photos

Sign up!

See sample | Privacy Policy

What happens when ordinary people decide to pay it forward? Extraordinary change. See how individuals are making a difference...

Bassam al-Kadi works in his office in Damascus, Syria. His six-year-old Syrian Women's Observatory distributes information about women's rights online in Arabic and English.

In Syria, the fight for women's rights means helping both genders

Bassam al-Kadi heads the Syrian Women's Observatory, which aims to change the way both the government and the culture regard women in Syria.

Become part of the Monitor community

14,350 Fans | 5,500 on Twitter | 700K RSS subscribers

Innovation »

Horizons: Portal 2 release date delayed due to 'public safety concerns'

World »

Global News Blog: Anybody got a Rio Ferdinand? World Cup

World »

Interview with Afghan warlord Hekmatyar: Can peace talks succeed?

Money »

The New Economy: Bonus in Shrek glasses recall: $3 refund for $2 glass

World »

Global News Blog: Pau Gasol, Lakers-Celtics, and the outsourcing of the World »

Global News Blog: Global mystery: Why are snakes dying off?

Ads by Google

\(About these\)

Transocean Explosion

$100 Million Verdict Against BP Top Attorney in the Gulf Coast www.txattorneys.com

Last Minute Tee Times

Tee Time Specials Online, Book Now and Save Big!
www.GolfNow.com

Oil Spill Gulf of Mexico

Have You Been Affected by the Oil? Don't Wait, Act Now - 281-332-1400
FuhrLaw.com

Ads by Google

Sponsored Links

Booking Agency
Grabow Entertainment Agency
Business Resources
Business Cards
Checks
Computers
PowerEdge Memory
Charitable Donations
Car Donations
Boat Donations

Graphic Design
Logo Design - LogoBee
Real Estate
International Shipping
Mortgage Calculator
Moving
Moving Companies
Real Estate

Speakers Bureau
Christian Speakers
Motivational Speakers
Sports Speakers Bureaus
Web Services
Dedicated Servers
Web Hosting

Local Guides

Alabama
Alaska
Arizona
Arkansas
California
Colorado
Connecticut
DC
Delaware
Florida
Georgia
Hawaii
Idaho
Illinois

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 20 YEARS...

About these ads

