

Top 4 ways to get a flight attendant to go Steve Slater

1 of 4

More USA

After an altercation with a passenger, JetBlue flight attendant Steve Slater quit his job on the spot and made a heroic (albeit possibly criminal) slide from an exit hatch. Yes, passengers can be incredibly obnoxious. Here's a list of what annoys flight attendants most.

- Matt Rocheleau, Contributor

Enlarge

The members of your onboard crew might not perform martial arts on you (as these Korean Air flight attendants did in a 2001 drill). But if you stick your gum under the fold-up tray, they'll want to. (Kim Jae-Hwan/Newscom/file)

1. Seat-back pockets are not trash cans, folks

There is a reason that flight attendants go down the aisle several times before landing. Those trash bags they're carrying aren't Armani accessories. Yes, trash can build up on long flights, but stuffing refuse and gum into seat-back pockets, fold-up trays, between seats, on the floor, in overhead bins – basically anywhere they fit – is sure to anger your onboard crew.

"A big gripe on longer flights is the amount of trash and debris that seems to accumulate around some passengers' seats," writes

Sullivan. " 'Do they throw their cups and tissues and newspapers on the floor like that at home? I think not!' said one flight attendant I interviewed."

Remedy: Use the trash bags, people. Otherwise, if you've forgotten to throw something away, bring it out with you when you deplane – or at least don't hide it. The next passenger will surely find it and complain to the flight attendant.

- Lesson from JetBlue attendant meltdown: overhead bins are sacred
- JetBlue attendant: Why judge may not be amused by Steve Slater
- Outburst of JetBlue flight attendant: Can flying ever be made civil?
- View all lists

1 of 4

About these ads

Subscribe to the weekly MONITOR and SAVE 71%

Most viewed

1. Meteor shower August 2010: how you can get the best view
2. Perseid meteor shower: August 2010 marks more than just a show
3. Happy Meals: Does McDonald's lure kids unfairly?
4. Perseid meteor shower tonight: It's a spectacular troublemaker
5. Repercussions of an Israeli attack on Iran
6. Dell Streak review roundup
7. Watching you watch the Perseid meteor shower
8. Iran changes Ashtiani stoning sentence for adultery to hanging
9. Prop 8 stay ends next week, setting stage for California gay marriage
10. Why kindergarten is key to financial success in life

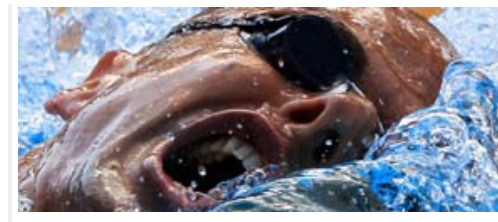

Like You like this Be the first of your friends to like this. Admin Page Error Unlike

Photos of the day

08.12.10 >>

In Pictures

Space photos of the day 08/12

Inside CSMonitor.com:

3 Reasons Israel won't bomb Iran

A long article in the latest Atlantic argues there's a strong chance Israel will unilaterally attack Iran next summer over its nuclear program. Here are three reasons why it won't happen.

Global News Blog

Most human dominoes? They're in China (video)

Mobile technology: India and BlackBerry standoff could lead to ban

The president and the carnival barker

Perseid meteor shower: August 2010 marks more than just a show